

NEW YORK FOCUS

Muni bond investors confident in NYC's revival

Municipal bond investors are expressing optimism that New York City will see an economic upturn this summer due to the city's planned reopening, falling coronavirus cases and around $14 billion in federal aid. "We own New York City bonds and we don't feel compelled to be a seller," said Neil Klein, co-director of fixed income strategy at Carret Asset Management.

Full Story: Bloomberg (4/29)

NYC should have 24-hour subways, Sen. Schumer says

With the number of coronavirus cases falling and subway ridership rising, it's time to restore New York City's around-the-clock subway service, said Sen. Chuck Schumer, D-N.Y. "The city that never sleeps is waking up from COVID, and so should the subway," Schumer said.

Full Story: The Associated Press (5/2)

Become a member

Learn how you can be a part of CFA Society New York.

LEARN MORE ABOUT CFA Society New York:

Home page | Programs | Membership